Paris Peace Talks Resume Saturday

PARIS (AP) — The long-stalled Vietnam peace talks are to begin Saturday, eight months after the preliminary discussions got under way.

With the consent of their allies, the United States and North Vietnam announced today a breakthrough in the filibuster about the shape of the table the negotiators will use. The American, North Vietnamese, South Vietnamese and National Liberation Front delegations will sit around an unmarked round table at the International Conference Center.

W. Averell Harriman, the U.S. ambassador who is retiring from the talks this weekend, said the solution represented no victory for any side.

"It was not suggested by any one person," he said. "It was not a compromise, but just a decision that all could agree to, and satisfactory to all the participants of the conference."

Harriman hailed the agreement as an important step on the road to peace, saying it is possible that the talks may get fairly quickly to substantive matters, perhaps by the time his successor, Henry Cabot Lodge, arrive in a week or 10 days.

In Saigon, Foreign Minister Tran Chanh Thanh insisted the talks will be two-sided—the United States and Saigon vs. Hanoi and the Viet Cong's front.

"This is the nearest we could get to the two sides we have been fighting for," Thanh said. "It looks like a victory if you go back to the original North Vietnamese demand for a four-sided conference."

Two rectangular tables for secretaries will flank the round table at a distance of about 18 inches, and Thanh suggested these are sufficient to satisfy Saigon's demand for two-sided talks since they indicate a division between the allied and Hanoi-Viet Cong negotiators.

The shape of the table and speaking arrangements had been at the core of the wrangle which had held up the enlarged talks ever since President Johnson announced the end of the bombing of North Vietnam Oct. 31 and opened the way for a new phase of the conference.

The North Vietnamese spokesman, as if suggesting that the solution was a victory for his side, told newsmen Hanoi had proposed a round table as long ago as Dec. 12, and "the United States and the Saigon administration must bear the entire responsibility for the fact that it has taken to Jan. 18 for the conference to meet."

South Vietnam's spokesman insisted that the accord showed his governments good will.

There will be no flags or emblems in the conference room. The first session, at least, will be held in private. The North Vietnamese said they wanted the meeting to be public but that the United States objected. The Americans said future meetings might be open to the press.

The agreement appears to have compromised the two-sided, four-side argument by leaving the table unmarked, but by arranging at the same time a speaking order which suggested two sides.

On the first day the Saigon-American side will speak first, and at the next meeting, the Hanoi-NLF side will speak first. For the Saturday meeting the allied side has designated Phong, Saigon's No. 2 man, as the speaker, followed by Vance.

Ambassador W. Averell Harriman, chief of the U.S. delegation, does not plan to remain in Paris, despite the agreement. (Continued on Page 14)

Circleville Jaycees Name Top Farmer

Optimism and self-reliance characterize the 35-year-old Muhlenberg Twp. man chosen by the Jaycees as the Outstanding Young Farmer of Pickaway County for 1969.

James Hastings, Route 316, was picked by a local committee of men associated with agriculture, on the basis of progress in his career, in crop and livestock production, use of conservation practices and contributions to the community.

He will be presented the Outstanding Young Farmer of the Year Award at the annual Jaycee Distinguished Services Awards Banquet Monday evening in the 4-H and Grange Building. The Outstanding Young Man, Young Educator and Senior Citizen will also receive awards at that time.

Hastings lives with his wife Patsy Ann, and four children about two miles west of Robtown, where he is engaged in general livestock and grain farming. The children are Rom, 9; Brett, 8; and twins Mat and Holl, two years old.

"The new farmer of the year is a man that looks to the future for continued growth and prosperity."

"When I first got out of the army, I worked a small farm in partnership with my father; today I farm 1,013 rented acres," he stated, "and I expect things to get better. Someday I hope to own my own farm."

Production costs are up now and profits are down he admitted, "but if you can get through hard times like these, it will be worthwhile," Hastings said.

After graduation from Mt. Sterling High School, Hastings began the hard work of getting where he is today. He started out farming with his father but was drafted a short while afterwards. Upon returning to the Army, he again formed a partnership with his father and farmed with him for eight years.

But rough times and his father's bad health made it necessary for Hastings to buy out his father's half interest in the machinery. He recalls that the $11,600 investment seemed very large at that time.

But "it has been worth all those rough times and trouble," the energetic Hastings stated. "I love farming. I couldn't see myself tied to a desk job or taking orders from someone else," he said.

"FARMING offers you plenty of fresh air, a great place to raise a family and an opportunity to see results of increased work pay off," he emphasized.

"Living in the city with a regimented life just doesn't seem to be for us. I don't think he could ever be happy that way," volunteered his wife, Patsy.

Farming and raising a family take most of his energies but he still finds enough time to belong to the Scioto Grange, for 14 years, Pickaway County Farmers Club, Jackson Twp. P.T.B., Muhlenberg Twp. Democratic Central Committee and the National Farmers Organization.

A charter member of the NFO, he believes that his organization and collective bargaining practices help farm prices.

Listed among the benefits that he has gained through the NFO is selling his beef on the rail instead of at auction.

He explained that the prices he received, worked out in cooperation with the NFO, are higher than if he sold them at an auction, due to the quality of the beef he raises. General stock would probably bring a better sale at the auction rather than dressed, he continued.

HEREFORDS and Angus—Herefords comprise the two herds that he raises at present. But he plans to enlarge his beef production this year on completion of an automated beef setup at one of the farms. The new operation will include 60 head of feeder cattle.

In addition to the cattle, he raises hogs, corn, oats, wheat and soybeans. "We try to keep some diversity so that if the price drops on one of the products, we will have the others to fall back on," he said.

Presently he plants 238 acres of corn with a 105.6 bushel per acre yield; 83.8 acres of oats at 86 bushel; 74 acres wheat, 43.69 bushel; and 193 acres of soybeans, 30 bushel.

Wheat production has increased most in the past ten years. The production has almost doubled from the 25 bushel per acre then to 43.69 bushel today. Corn has increased by 25 bushel per acre from 80 bushels ten years ago.

Soil sampling and treatment are the major reasons for the gain, Hastings stated. The sampling is conducted by Ohio State University.

Red Spaceships Dock; Crew Shifts

Gives Boost To Russian Space Program

MOSCOW (AP)—Two Soviet cosmonauts transferred from one orbiting spaceship to another today, scoring a dramatic first for the Soviet space program.

The two space ships, Soyuz 4 and Soyuz 5, had linked up in orbit shortly before cosmonauts Yevgeny Khronov and Alexei Yeliseyev made the transfer.

The official news agency Tass said they moved from Soyuz 5 to join Vladimir Shatalov in Soyuz 4, leaving Boris Volynov alone in Soyuz 5.

Tass said the two space ships separated after being locked together for 4 hours, 35 minutes.

There was no immediate word on the remainder of the flight program.

Radio Moscow said the two cosmonauts were outside the linked-up ships "about an hour."

Khronov and Yeliseyev donned space suits just before the maneuver. Radio Moscow said the suits were equipped with a new life-support system. "Thus Shatalov's two-day solitude in orbit was over," Tass said.

Khronov exited from Soyuz 5 and climbed aboard the companion ship above the territory of South America. Yeliseyev made his move over the Soviet Union.

"The condition of all cosmonauts is good," Radio Moscow said.

British Meet Ends Without Agreements

LONDON (AP)—Major disputes scarring Britain's partnership with 27 Commonwealth nations—from race and immigration to Nigeria and Rhodesia—remained unresolved after nine days of summit talks.

A 23-page communique, issued after the end of the conference Wednesday, returned these key questions to individual governments for further consideration.

The major hope voiced by several delegations was that the frank exchange of views, and the general determination to strengthen multiracial cooperation within the Commonwealth, could pave the way for progress later. Tempers were held on explosive issues that once threatened to break up the alliance.

The communique, nevertheless, showed Commonwealth leaders were unable to do more than disagree in polite terms on these major points:

1. African nations, supported by some Caribbean and Asian states, demanded withdrawal of Britain's offer to grant independence to rebel Rhodesia before African majority rule is assured there. Britain stuck to its formula insisting on guarantees for unimpeded progress toward African rule after independence. The white minority Rhodesian regime has refused the offer.

2. The communique made no mention of the Nigerian-Biafran civil war, kept off the formal agenda by Nigerian statements that such discussions would be interference in her internal affairs. Informal efforts outside the conference to set up Nigerian-Biafran talks are expected to continue until the weekend. But British Prime Minister Harold Wilson told newsmen it would be wrong to raise any hopes.

Navy Probers Seek Cause Of Atom Carrier Disaster

PEARL HARBOR (AP)—The U.S. Navy carried on with cleanup operations aboard the nuclear aircraft carrier Enterprise today as investigators sought to pin down the cause of explosions and fire which killed 25 crewmen and injured 85.

A 26th sailor was missing in the disaster which struck the 85,000-ton warship on a training exercise 75 miles southwest of Honolulu Tuesday.

Adm. John J. Hyland, commander of the Pacific fleet, said he was "confident that we are going to be able to establish exactly what did happen and what caused it."

The explosions and fire put the Enterprise, world's largest combat vessel, out of action until repairs are completed. No official source would guess how long this would take.

It was indicated that the ship would start back to its home port of Alameda, Calif., as soon as possible.

"We'll choose the location which will be able to make repairs best and quickest so that we can return the Enterprise to service just as soon as it can possibly be done," said Hyland.

In Honolulu's Tripler Army Hospital, 58 injured crewmen were still under treatment, four in serious condition. Another nine were flown to a special burns treatment center at Brooke Army Hospital in Texas.

An air-sea search for a missing crewman was called off at sunset Wednesday.

Gutted aircraft and other debris littered the carrier's flight deck, but Cmdr. Samuel B. Lancaster, public affairs officer of the Enterprise, said a cleanup would be completed "in a couple more days."

The fire swept about 250 feet of the aft flight deck, destroying 15 planes loaded with bombs and rockets.

The vessel's propulsion system, which has eight nuclear reactors, was untouched.

The blaze followed a series of at least 10 explosions which ripped gaping holes in the flight deck. One left a gash 26 feet long and 24 feet wide, penetrating into three lower decks.

Most of the dead were members of crews preparing a launch of planes.

Roundtown

FOR the second time this month, the mercury rose to above the freezing mark Wednesday in the Roundtown area to a mild 36 degrees. Previous high for the month was on Jan. 6 when the thermometer registered 34 degrees. The present warming trend will remain for awhile according to the local weather observer and will send the temperatures into the low 50s on Friday. The comparative balmy weather will undoubtedly be accompanied by rain which has been forecast for the area.

MAYOR Richard L. Gerhardt has been named to serve on the Legislative Committee of the Ohio Municipal League.

Ohio Assembly's 2nd Week Ends; Workshop Is Slated

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP)—The Ohio Legislature was expected to wind up its second week by noon today and prepare for a precedent-breaking workshop and seminar at Burr Oak State Park next week.

The House planned to convene for a brief skeleton session and the Senate was to meet regularly later and adjourn without important business.

House Speaker Charles F. Kurfess said the workshop will be held Monday through Thursday near Athens.

"What we have in mind is a session where legislators can be briefed in candid off-the-record discussions," he said.

Meantime, a few lawmakers will remain at Columbus to refer new bills to committees.

As the General Assembly prepared for the customary deluge of individually-sponsored proposals, it became apparent that the needs of Ohio's cities would stir interest and controversy later.

Spokesmen of both parties are acknowledging that the trend is towards more financial help for local governments from the state.

"We should try to do more for local government this session besides permissive taxes," said Sen. Michael J. Maloney, R-Cincinnati, the assistant majority leader.

Among the new proposals in the House:

— Putting teeth in the Air Pollution Control Law by providing penalties.

— Reducing from the current .15 level to .10 the blood alcohol content allowed for persons considered under the influence of alcohol.

— Requiring the state and political subdivisions to buy group health insurance for every employee and family.

In the Senate: — Permitting county commissioners to approve revenue bonds and build a county-operated hospital without the vote of the people.

— Allowing the Department of Public Welfare to dispense medical aid to persons who don't qualify under income requirements, as long as federal money is available.

— Requiring a clear identification as political advertisements in all printed or broadcast material used in political campaigns.

Tarlton Gl Loses Life In Vietnam

MICHAEL SPANGLER

Spec. 5 Michael Spangler, son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert Spangler, Tarlton, was killed by mortar fire in Vietnam Jan. 13.

Mr. and Mrs. Spangler received word of the death of their son Wednesday.

A 1965 graduate of Logan Elm High School, Spangler attended Ohio State University a year and a half before entering the service Sept. 25, 1967.

He was assigned to service in Vietnam Sept. 25, 1968. A week and three days after he was in Vietnam, he was wounded in action.

HE received the Purple Heart for the wounds. Early in December Spangler returned to action.

School officials at Logan Elm remember Spangler as a model student—liked by teachers as well as his fellow students.

He was a member of student council, and was a class officer three of his four high school years. He was an above average student.

Athletically inclined, he lettered four years on the varsity baseball team, received two varsity basketball awards and two reserve basketball awards, and one reserve football award.

He was the second Logan Elm graduate to lose his life in Vietnam. James Hoover, a 1962 graduate, was also killed in action.

In addition to his parents, Spangler is survived by two brothers, Charles and Jerry.

Seek Cutback In Uranium

WASHINGTON (AP)—The government said Wednesday its cupboard is overflowing with uranium and it would like the uranium industry to ease up on deliveries for awhile.

The Atomic Energy Commission said it is seeking proposals to limit total deliveries of uranium concentrates from companies now under contract.

Declaring such a reduction would save the government money, the AEC said:

"The commission believes that a moderate reduction in deliveries can be achieved on terms which would be mutually advantageous to the contractors and the government."

The AEC said its commitment to purchase uranium under the contracts—which terminate Dec. 31, 1970—exceeds its present needs, "largely because of previous cutbacks in military requirements for fissionable materials."

Long Arm Of British Law Gets Underwater Poacher

ST. PETER PORT, Channel Islands (AP) — David Kempthorne-Ley was engaged in an illegal act 45 feet below the surface of the sea when the long, wet arm of the law tapped him on the shoulder.

It was a historic moment—Britain's first underwater arrest.

Police Constable David Archer, wearing a skindiver's suit with mask and goggles, signaled Kempthorne-Ley to the surface and promptly charged him with ormering.

The 32-year-old culprit was fined the equivalent of $48 Wednesday for poaching ormers, a local shellfish regarded as a rare delicacy in Guernsey, one of Britain's Channel Islands.

Under an old Guernsey law it is illegal to collect ormers except for four days from the start of a full moon.

Gives Boost

Tass described the space suits as "a new autonomous regeneration-type life-sustaining system." This appeared to mean that the cosmonaut could survive without the cable connected to the oxygen supply of the space ship.

The one-hour duration of the space walk was calculated from the moment the hatch of Soyuz 5 was opened to the time the hatch of Soyuz 4 was shut.

A Tass editor said that Khrushchev and Yeliseyev passed into the working compartment of Soyuz 5, sealed it off from the crew quarters where Volynov was sitting, then opened the hatch.

Meanwhile, the editor said, Shatalov's working compartment hatch was opened as he remained isolated in his crew quarters.

In the Soyuz mission, the Soviet Union performed the world's first docking maneuver of two manned space ships. It also marked the Soviet Union's first manned docking of any kind.

Tass referred to the linkup as "the world's first experimental space station." It was not immediately clear whether the crew capsules of the ships would be detached for re-entry, leaving the working quarters in orbit. The Soyuz design is known to include this capability.

After the linkup earlier today a Moscow radio announcer declared the docking "guarantees the fulfillment of a great complex of experiments."

There also was no confirmation in Moscow that the Soviet Union might have launched a third spaceship this morning. The Bochum observatory in West Germany reported intercepting radio signals indicating a new launching.

Cosmonaut Vladimir Shatalov, hurled into space two days ago aboard Soyuz 4, took over manual controls to guide his ship into Soyuz 5 after ground controls had brought them close together in orbit, Tass said. Soyuz 5, with three men aboard, was launched Wednesday.

The two ships docked over the territory of the Soviet Union, Tass said, after making an approach to within 100 yards, controlled by radio signals from the ground.

"After the docking, there was a mutual mechanical coupling of the ships," Tass went on, "and they were rigidly tightened up and their electrical circuits were connected."

The docking occurred at 3:20 a.m. EST, and was announced about an hour later.

"The flight of the experimental station continues," Radio Moscow said. "All cosmonauts are feeling excellent."

Moscow television, continuing its close coverage of the Soyuz mission, showed a delayed videotape broadcast of the approach and docking. Soyuz 5 could be seen slowly getting closer to the two cameras mounted outside Soyuz 4.

"Congratulations to everybody," a voice from the ground said as the two ships locked together.

One of the ships then said to the other: "We've been hunting for you for a long time."

Soyuz 5, as seen on the television screen, resembled a mechanical bird. Its extended solar energy collectors looked like wings.

Johnson Hails Resumption Of Viet Talks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson hailed today the Paris agreement on the shape of a Vietnam conference table and said that now "new talks on the substance of peace in Southeast Asia can open."

Speaking at an unrelated ceremony in the White House cabinet room, Johnson said that three lessons are to be learned from America's experience since he announced a cessation of the bombing of North Vietnam and renounced another run for the presidency last March 31st.

"First," he said, "we must be clear and firm pursuing with our allies the limited but vital objectives we seek in Southeast Asia."

"Second, we must be patient and face the hard fact that fighting is likely to continue as the negotiations are carried forward."

"Third, we should be confident that an honorable peace is possible if we here at home remain steady."

The President, obviously delighted that the way was opened for actual peace negotiations by a decision to seat the rival delegations at a round table in Paris, went on to say that there have been three crises since the preliminary discussions opened in the French capital nine months ago. He said these were on a place for the talks, on terms for the bombing cessation, and on procedures for the new talks.

"In each case," the chief executive said, "patience, firmness and fair-mindedness achieved a satisfactory result."

Chrysler Options Cincy Area Land

DETROIT (AP) — Chrysler Corp. says it has taken an option on a 600-acre tract of land in the Cincinnati area. But it says plans for development of the land aren't firm yet.

R. S. Bright, vice president of Chrysler, said the site is located at the southeast quadrant of the intersection of Interstate 75 and State Highway 63 about 20 miles north of Cincinnati.

Bright said: "The move is part of Chrysler's long-range development program and no construction is contemplated on the site in the near future."

Top Farmer . . .

OUTSTANDING FARMER — James Hastings of near Robstown was picked as the Outstanding Young Farmer of Pickaway County for 1969 in the Jaycees sponsored contest. Hastings, along with several other community leaders, will be given an award at the annual Jaycees Distinguished Services Awards Banquet at the 4-H and Grange Building Monday evening.

(Continued from Page 1) production is with hogs. Hastings stated that his 26 sows presently produce about 8.6 pigs per litter today as compared with 7.1 pigs ten years ago. Better feed and certified boars are acknowledged by him as the reason for the increases.

THE hogs are also an asset to the beef production on the Hastings farm. Liquid hog manure is processed on the farms and used to fertilize the limited cattle grazing areas.

The liquid hog manure tanks and gathering process were designed and built by Hastings on one of the farms he rents.

To insure a price for at least some of his products he has turned to contracting on grain. "Grain and beef contracting will be the thing to do in a few years," he stated. "I plan to get in and learn at the beginning."

With farming, like selling, Hastings has taught himself most of what he knows. "I guess I'm what you'd call a self-taught man," he remarked.

County extension office course, books and recommendations of salesmen and trial and error have been his teacher.

EXPERIMENTING with new techniques and modifications of old farming practices and machinery have been a constant process with him. "It saves a lot of money if you can use the old stuff or do the work yourself," he commented.

Among the things he has done himself are learning to weld. After a three-night course on the subject several years ago he has reached the point today where he does most of his own repair work around the farms.

He has also experimented with narrow rows, use of ammonia and liquid phosphorus on corn and adaption of materials for new uses.

"I fixed a horn device on a wire baler to automatically sound when the wire runs out," he noted. He has also built a hydraulic hoe carrier, built wagons from truck chassis, made an oil check door on a new picker, made a set of portable scales from a stationary set and installed an auto air conditioner in his new combine.

But when it comes to paper work he doesn't experiment around, and if he can help it, he doesn't do it. "Patsy does most of the bookkeeping," he explained, noting that they use the Ohio State University Account Book and plan to stay with it.

In looking to the future he hopes to be able to enlarge his operations soon and to buy some of his own land in the area.

THE increase in his operations reflects what he sees as a growing trend to larger farms with bigger and more specialized equipment which a small farmer cannot afford.

But wherever the farm is, it has to have a forest on it, he stated with a smile. The farm he lives on today is a tree farm in the Ohio Division of Forests.

The trees have practical uses such as windbreaks and water level stabilizers he noted. But most important the woods provide a place for recreation, a place to relax and to go hunting mushrooms and gathering hickory nuts, he concluded.

SD Appoints 2 Firemen

Two new appointments to the Circleville Fire Department were announced today by Safety Director Robert Adkins.

Carl N. Ross, 30, 348 Loagn St., and Wayne Malott, 26, 220 E. Main St., are the new firemen.

Ross, married and the father of five children, has been assigned to Lt. Glen Jones' shift. Malott is working with Lt. Mike Brown's crew.

NATO Chiefs To Set Goals

5-Year Plan To Be Approved

BRUSSELS, Belgium. — Defense ministers from the nations of the Atlantic Alliance met today to approve the goals they want their armed forces to meet over the next five years.

The French tricolor was among the 15 flags hoisted at entrance to the headquarters of the alliance, although France was not represented at the meeting.

The new goals include modest increases of men and war material pledges by the members in the face of the Soviet-led invasion of Czechoslovakia last year.

U.S. Army and Air Force maneuvers now being held in West Germany — Reforger 1 and Crested Cap — are part of the additional American contribution.

Eight years of American leadership under Democratic presidents have come to an end in the alliance, and its defense ministers look forward to a greater European contribution during the presidency of Richard M. Nixon.

The Ministers are holding a one-day session behind closed doors at headquarters of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Figures released today showed defense spending by members other than the United States decreased from $23,053,000,000 in 1967 to an estimated $22,606,000,000 last year. West Germany, a pillar of the alliance in Western Europe, cut its spending from $5,348,000,000 to $5,081,000,000.

Friends of the alliance hope the Soviet occupation of Czechoslovakia reversed this trend. At a meeting last November, member nations vied with one another to pledge new contributions. How far this will go in practice remains to be seen. It depends on what national parliaments decide.

Fewer U.S. Bases

In a few more years the United States may have little reason to be concerned over the problem of whether to resign as policeman for the world. The decision may be made by the other nations of the free world.

One after another, non-communist countries of Europe and Asia are making it clear that while American protection was appreciated in the past, less of it is desired in the future.

One of the principal ways other nations are getting this message across to Uncle Sam is in agreements concerning U.S. bases on their soil. As these agreements come up for renewal, most of the host countries write new restrictions into them, or in some cases drastically curtail American bases.

Such a development was evident in the newly-signed U.S.-Japanese base agreement. The U.S. had agreed to turn back to Japanese control more than a dozen of its 148 military installations in Japan, and share with the Japanese some 40 others. Affected bases include about half the acreage occupied by U.S. forces in Japan.

While no timetable for the partial U.S. withdrawal from Japan has been announced, the new agreement is recognized as a concession to the increasingly vocal anti-American tirades of the extreme left in the Asian country. It marks a major change in U.S. influence in one of the more important areas of the world.

Mafia Leaders Jailed

Sentencing of 73 Mafia gangsters by an Italian court, to terms ranging up to 27 years was a strong blow against this criminal conspiracy which operates in every corner of the world. Whether it will break the back of the longtime Sicilian headquarters of the Mafia is not clear.

Some of the reputed leaders of the Mafia from Sicily were among those receiving the longest terms. Trial of the mobsters was moved out of Sicily because of fears witnesses could be intimidated against talking on the island.

For decades the Sicilian Mafia has operated with almost total immunity, spreading its tentacles throughout organized crime in every major nation of the world. So strict was the discipline of the syndicate, and so fearsome its power, that informers were few and witnesses almost non-existent.

Has this changed with the mass Italian convictions? This is one scourge that international cooperation and fearless justice can eliminate, if there is a will.

A Regulatory Agency

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Between Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission and the seven Harvard and Yale law school students who spent last summer investigating the commissioner's regulatory agency there are many gulfs. The students are Ivy Leaguers from the campuses of the Northeast; Dixon was educated in Tennessee and Florida. The students, who include William Howard Taft 4th and Peter Bradford (now assistant to Maine's Governor Curtis), grew up in the affluent America of the Sixties, which takes affluence for granted; Dixon comes from the hard knocks period of the depressed Thirties. The age gulf, the regional gulf, even the contrasting habits of speech and attitudes toward courtesy are enough to explain the quite obvious fact that Dixon and the young investigative team organized by consumer crusader Ralph Nader were bound to clash.

Clash they certainly did, for the report issued by the young investigators charging incompetence, indolence, and alcoholism in the FTC is perhaps the toughest rap since the mine workers' chieftain, John L. Lewis called Vice President John Nance Garner a poker-playing, whisky-drinking, evil old man. I won't comment on the personal aspects of the clash other than to say that the students showed Mr. Dixon scant courtesy when they turned over their report to television and the press before placing a copy on the commissioner's desk. It should be relevant to note, however, that, in addition to all the other gulfs, there is a gap as wide as the Atlantic Ocean between Mr. Dixon's philosophy of what a regulatory agency should do and the philosophy expressed by the Nader-organized investigatory team.

Mr. Dixon, a veteran of the Kefauver investigations into consumer practices, can hardly be called anti-consumer. He was a Kennedy appointee at the FTC, with a renewal under Lyndon Johnson, and he believes that capitalists must submit to regulation if only to save them from themselves. Yet his philosophy stipulates system isn't supposed to produce more laws than is necessary. "You can't enforce a law," he says, "that the people don't want enforced."

This attitude, when translated into the world of a regulatory agency, results in such things as "advisory opinions," "consent decrees," promises to "cease and desist," "voluntary compliance" and other things which the Nader-recruited law school students regard as horrifying softness.

Their report makes it obvious that they want a Federal Trade Commission that would "multiply its staff and budget many times over," engaging in positive detective work by employing engineers, chemists and other experts capable of looking into such things as the workings of household appliances, the strength of construction materials, the performance of cars. In short: a "Big Brother Is Watching You," approach which Mr. Dixon, who thinks most business men can be trusted to behave decently if you tell them the rules, finds personally obnoxious and which Congress has always refused to sanction with supporting funds.

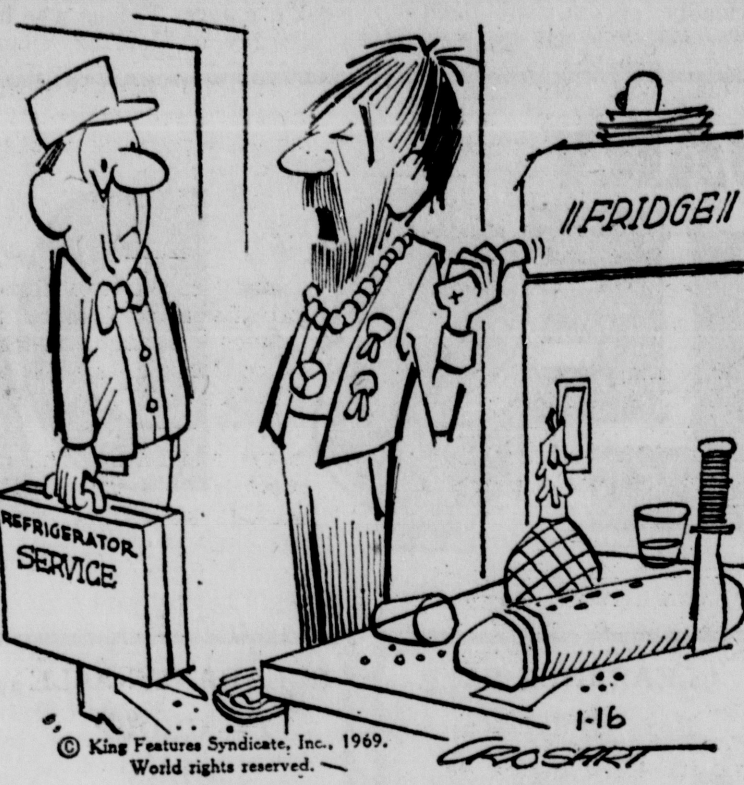

The difference in viewpoint between "Nader Raiders" and Chairman Dixon is clearly apparent in their respective uses of rhetoric. The young critics want "criminal sanctions" applied to "dishonest corporate behavior." Mr. Dixon would agree provided that criminality is involved, but he finds it disturbing when his young critics go on to say that the "dishonesty" of corporations "is far more dangerous in contemporary America than all the depredations of street crime." Such language, he thinks, betrays the "extreme anti-business bias" of the "young zealots," for what they are saying is that corporation executives "are engaged in much more reprehensible conduct than rapists, robbers, muggers and so on." Chairman Dixon finds it hard to believe that his young critics can actually equate the crime of raping a woman in a dark alley with the "tyranny" involved in "exploiting" a housewife "by games, gimmicks and deception." Yet in the "young zealots' equation, the commercial use of "gimmicks" becomes actually more reprehensible than a mugging.

There will never be any reconciliation between the Nader and Dixon points of view. But as between the "Big Brother Is Watching You" approach advocated by the law school students and the "give 'em a chance to comply" philosophy of the regulatory agencies, Congress, which represents a blend of producer and consumer interests, has always preferred to stop considerably short of George Orwell's 1984. The gimlet-eyed gumshoeing advocated by the students for policing detergent and mouthwash sales would not only cost billions, it would also result in a far less productive business system, which wouldn't help the consumer at all.

Two ladies who had been friends since their school days could never resist comparing prices of similar new acquisitions, with the one who had paid the most, by some strange application of one-upmanship, scoring what both recognized as a moral victory. When Mrs. A. announced the purchase of a costly new set of porch furniture, her nose was put out of joint by the announcement that Mrs. B. had bought one even more expensive. Mrs. A. rallied, however, when she heard that Mrs. B. had paid the whole bill at once. "We bought ours on the installment plan," she announced happily. "That way it'll cost more than yours!"

Try and Stop Me

By BENNETT CERF

FROM Hollywood comes a story about two producers of Biblical pictures who were accusing each other of knowing little or nothing about the actual contents of the Bible. "Why, I'll bet," scoffed one, "that you can't even recite the Lord's Prayer." "The heck I can't," crowed the other. "It begins, 'Now I lay me down to sleep.' " "I'll be darned," acknowledged the first one. "I would have sworn you didn't know it!"

Speaking Of Your Health

By Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Scientific medicine seems to be overflowing with knowledge that is now being accumulated in laboratories all over the world. Modern accomplishments are startling even to those of us who have been in practice for many years and have watched, with open-eyed wonder, the changes that have occurred in the past twenty-five years.

Yet, intermingled with the sophistication of heart-lung machines, life saving kidney machines, heart and other organ transplants, antibiotics and cortisone, comes a sense of modesty about the wonders of ancient medicine. Many of these ancient medical systems in China and in many tribal countries were based upon trial and error with the use of herbs, which were remarkable, even then, in treating complicated diseases. It took hundreds of years, perhaps even thousands, for developing modern medicine to explain those drugs and how they accomplished their purpose without anyone knowing exactly why they worked.

Feelings of depression, commonly known as the blues. The complexities of their emotional lives is great, even though parents tend to think "what do they have to worry about?"

It may be true that they do not have to earn a living and the social problems of the family are not imposed on them, but they, too, have their conflicts, jealousies, insecurities and brother-sister rivalries. When it is accepted that children have that right to temporary depression, parents will respect it and allow them to "live it through" without making them feel embarrassed or rejected. It is hard to grow up in this complicated age.

TODAY In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Thursday, Jan. 16, the 16th day of 1969. There are 349 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history: On this date in 1920, the 18th Amendment to the Constitution, prohibiting the manufacture, sale or transportation of intoxicating liquors, went into effect, giving birth to the "era of the speakeasy and bathtub gin."

In 1883 the Pendleton Act went into effect, providing for the U. S. Civil Service Commission.

In 1920 a new motion picture, called The Kid, was released for public distribution. It starred Charlie Chaplin and little boy, soon to become the darling of the nation, Jackie Coogan.

In 1942, screen actress Carole Lombard and 21 other passengers were killed in the crash of a commercial airliner near Las Vegas, Nev.

In 1952, Soviet Russia ordered all foreign diplomats in Moscow to limit their movements to within 25 miles of the city; 22 cities of Russian Siberia were declared out of bounds for all foreigners.

In 1957, President Dwight D. Eisenhower sent to Congress a record peacetime budget, estimating federal expenditures for fiscal 1957-58 at $71.8 billion, but foreseeing a budget surplus of $1.8 billion.

Ten years ago . . . Australia Airlines Curtiss Commando crashed in a storm at Mar del Plata, Argentina, killing 51 of 52 passengers and crewmen.

The Business World

By LISA CRONIN (For John Cuniff)

NEW YORK (AP) — In one vast hotel room later this month will be assembled representatives of at least $300 billion of assets, most of which are in securities. These are the men who make the stock market move.

Among the 2,000 money managers will be insurance men, mutual and pension fund portfolio managers, bankers, trust fund administrators, heads of nonprofit foundations. The event: The Second Annual Institutional Investor Conference.

The common interest of all will be common stocks, for in these days of inflation and technological change, investors once willing to make a few per cent a year are now going after 10 to 100 per cent. In some respects it's a mad race.

Mutual funds, for example, are geared to "performance." This means they will take bigger risks and trade in-out more often in order to show their quarterly reports that they're doing better than the next fund.

This, of course, attracts a lot of attention to the winner, and soon the winner is buried in an avalanche of orders. One mutual fund this year had to suspend operations while its clerks frantically recorded new orders. It was doing too well.

This isn't the only fate of the highly successful performer. Some of the best young funds attract so much money that they can't find suitable investment opportunities. And so they, too, fall behind in the race.

Nevertheless, the highly publicized performance of the funds has put other institutions on the spot. Most of them have been forced to blow the dust off old securities and take greater risks for greater profits. Because of their activities, Gustave Levy, chairman of the New York Stock Exchange, estimated recently that as much as 50 per cent of all trading on the Big Board is by institutions rather than individuals.

This steady reduction in power of the individual has created serious problems of regulation and ethics. The stock market today is hardly one of random trading, the consequences of which are now being studied by the Securities and Exchange Commission.

A check at the SEC documents this growing concentration of stock ownership and stock market activity. Since 1958, private parties have been selling direct their holding of stocks: the institutions have been big buyers.

Foreign and domestic individuals still accounted for 66.5 per cent of all stock ownership up to June 30, 1968, according to the SEC, the breakdown being $462.5 billion owned by Americans and $23.2 billion by foreigners.

Most individuals, however, are investors rather than speculators or short term traders. They wouldn't care nor understand how to turn over their portfolios by the week or month or year. Instead they buy for several years, even decades.

Because of more frequent trading, the following SEC estimates of stock ownership are even more significant than they appear:

Personal trusts, $78.4 billion or 10.7 per cent of all stock—common and preferred, listed on exchanges or traded over the counter.

Investment companies, or mutual funds, $54.1 billion or 7.4 per cent.

Private, noninsured pension funds, $54 billion or 7.4 per cent. Foundations, such as Ford and Rockefeller, $15.2 billion, or 2.1 per cent.

Property and casualty insurance companies, $13.6 billion or 1.9 per cent; life insurance companies, $11.8 billion or 1.6 per cent.

College endowments, $8.4 billion or 1.1 per cent; common trust funds, $4 billion or 0.5 per cent; state and local trusts or pensions, $4.8 billion or 0.7 per cent; banks, $2 billion or 0.3 per cent.

Now if money meant freedom from problems this conference would be dull, but instead there is at least one major problem per billion dollar of assets. This is a young and growing investment trend.

So young is it, in fact, that the sponsor is a two-year-old magazine, The Institutional Investor, headed by a 27-year-old publisher, Gilbert Kaplan. It ought to be a great party.

MRS. RICHARD NIXON apparently hasn't changed much from the unsuccessful campaign of 1960 (left) to winning the First Ladyship now. Dress a bit shorter, hair slightly teased.

Letter To The Editor

EDITOR'S NOTE — We welcome letters to the editor. In order to be considered for publication, they must bear the correct name and address of the writer. Anonymous letters and those signed with the request that signatures be withheld will not be accepted for publication. Opinions expressed in this column are those of the writers and not necessarily those of The Herald.

Dear Editor:
It has long been the mourn for those who pretend to know how to run Circleville to "choke on a goat and swallow a camel." Council meetings are Amos and Andish to an extreme degree.

When some Councilmen find a horse they can ride, they ride it to death!
Such practice was the relationship to the action taken against a local soldier who was forced to move his trailer from his parents' lot at 324 S. Washington St. here in Circleville.

I am sure that soldier is taking enough of a riding while undergoing basic training to last him a lifetime. Therefore, when certain people hop on his and his parents' back, they simply add insult to injury and I'm definitely referring to those councilmen who did just that.

Let me suggest to those City Fathers that they find other ponies to ride. There's plenty of them around here that have never had a saddle on their backs or a bit in their mouths. Since I have used the horse to make a point I shall carry it a little farther and advise that the people of Roundtown would appreciate less horsing around at City Hall and more getting down to business on matters of importance.

MRS. JAMES MARBURGER
419 1/2 E. Union Street

Dear Editor:
During the spring we buy quite a few night crawlers from people in Circleville. Most of these people are on Welfare or fixed incomes, and are afraid to make additional money for fear of losing their meager allowances.

Since the passage of the city income tax, these people are calling and inquiring if we are going to continue to buy, and if so, are we going to collect the tax from them.

After checking with the Tax Director, I can assure them that we are not going to collect tax from them, and that we are not going to keep individual records of their earnings.

I am not objecting to the tax and will gladly pay my share of it. The purpose of this letter is to clarify the situation, for the benefit of the people who catch bait for us.

The U.S. had agreed to turn back to Japanese control more than a dozen of its 148 military installations in Japan, and share with the Japanese some 40 others. Affected bases include about half the acreage occupied by U.S. forces in Japan.

While no timetable for the partial U.S. withdrawal from Japan has been announced, the new agreement is recognized as a concession to the increasingly vocal anti-American tirades of the extreme left in the Asian country. It marks a major change in U.S. influence in one of the more important areas of the world.

Mafia Leaders Jailed

Sentencing of 73 Mafia gangsters by an Italian court, to terms ranging up to 27 years was a strong blow against this criminal conspiracy which operates in every corner of the world. Whether it will break the back of the longtime Sicilian headquarters of the Mafia is not clear.

Some of the reputed leaders of the Mafia from Sicily were among those receiving the longest terms. Trial of the mobsters was moved out of Sicily because of fears witnesses could be intimidated against talking on the island.

For decades the Sicilian Mafia has operated with almost total immunity, spreading its tentacles throughout organized crime in every major nation of the world. So strict was the discipline of the syndicate, and so fearsome its power, that informers were few and witnesses almost non-existent.

Has this changed with the mass Italian convictions? This is one scourge that international cooperation and fearless justice can eliminate, if there is a will.

A Regulatory Agency

By JOHN CHAMBERLAIN

Between Chairman Paul Rand Dixon of the Federal Trade Commission and the seven Harvard and Yale law school students who spent last summer investigating the commissioner's regulatory agency there are many gulfs. The students are Ivy Leagueers from the campuses of the Northeast; Dixon was educated in Tennessee and Florida. The students, who include William Howard Taft 4th and Peter Bradford (now assistant to Maine's Governor Curtis), grew up in the affluent America of the Sixties, which takes as its motto "the good life." Dixon comes from the hard knocks period of the depressed Thirties. The age gulf, the regional gulf, even the contrasting habits of speech and attitudes toward courtesy are enough to explain the quite obvious fact that Dixon and the young investigative team organized by consumer crusader Ralph Nader were bound to clash.

Clash they certainly did, for the report issued by the young investigators charging incompetence, indolence, and alcoholism in the FTC is perhaps the toughest rap since the mine workers' chieftain, John L. Lewis called Vice President John Nance Garner a "poker-playing, whisky-drinking, evil old man. I won't comment on the personal aspects of the clash other than to say that the students showed Mr. Dixon scant courtesy when they turned over their report to television and the press before placing a copy on the commissioner's desk. It should be relevant to note, however, that, in addition to all the other gulfs, there is a gap as wide as the Atlantic Ocean between Mr. Dixon's philosophy of what a regulatory agency should do and the philosophy expressed by the Nader-organized investigative team.

Mr. Dixon, a veteran of the Kefauver investigations into consumer practices, can hardly be called anti-consumer. He was a Kennedy appointee at the FTC, with a renewal under Lyndon Johnson, and he believes that capitalists must submit to regulation if only to save them from themselves. Yet his philosophy stipulates system isn't supposed to produce more laws than is necessary. "You can't enforce a law," he says, "that the people don't want enforced."

This attitude, when translated into the world of a regulatory agency, results in such things as "advisory opinions," "consent decrees," promises to "cease and desist," "voluntary compliance," and other things which the Nader-recruited law school students regard as horrifying offenses.

Their report makes it obvious that they want a Federal Trade Commission that would "multiply its staff and budget many times over," engaging in positive detective work by employing engineers, chemists and other experts capable of looking into such things as the workings of household appliances, the strength of construction materials, the performance of cars. In short: a "Big Brother Is Watching You" approach which Mr. Dixon, who thinks most business men can be trusted to behave decently if you tell them the rules, finds personally obnoxious and which Congress has always refused to sanction with supporting funds.

The difference in viewpoint between "Nader Raiders" and Chairman Dixon is clearly apparent in their respective uses of rhetoric. The young critics want "criminal sanctions" applied to "dishonest corporate behavior." Mr. Dixon would agree provided that criminality is involved, but he finds it disturbing when his young critics go on to say that the "dishonesty" of corporations "is far more dangerous in contemporary America than all the depredations of street crime." Such language, he thinks, betrays the "extreme anti-business bias" of the "young zealots," for what they are saying is that cooperation executives "are engaged in much more reprehensible conduct than rapists, robbers, muggers and so on." Chairman Dixon finds it hard to believe that his young critics can actually equate the crime of raping a woman in a dark alley with the "tyranny" involved in "exploiting" a housewife "by games, gimmicks and deception." Yet in the "young zealots'" equation, the commercial use of "gimmicks" becomes actually more reprehensible than a mugging.

There will never be any reconciliation between the Nader and Dixon points of view. But as between the "Big Brother Is Watching You" approach advocated by the law school students and the "give 'em a chance to comply" philosophy of the regulatory agencies, Congress, which represents a blend of producer and consumer interests, has always preferred to stop considerably short of George Orwell's 1984. The gimlet-eyed gumshoeing advocated by the students for policing detergent and mouthwash sales would not only cost billions, it would also result in a far less productive business system, which wouldn't help the consumer at all.

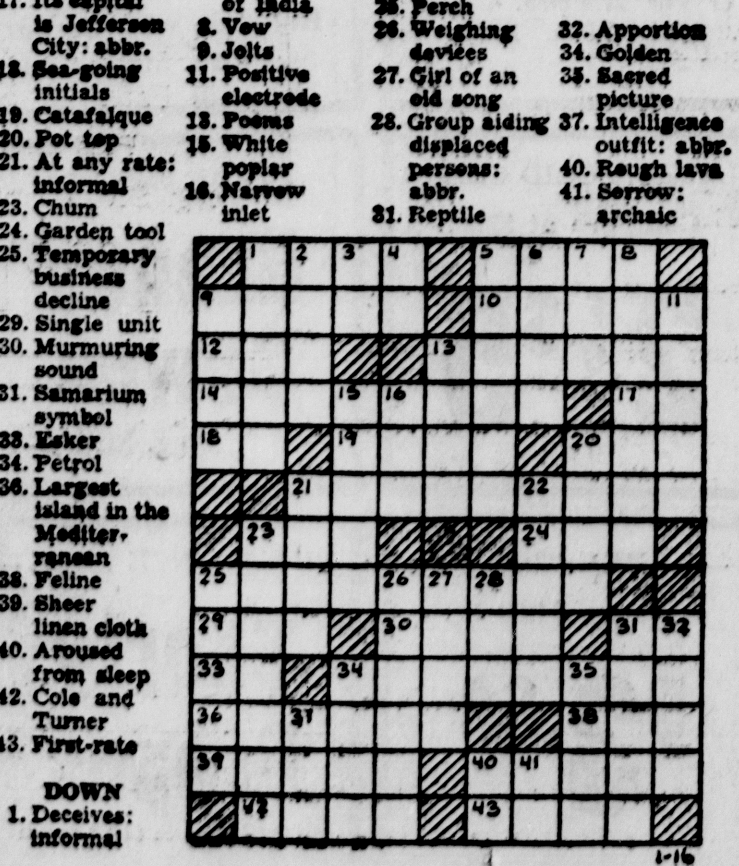

First Court Case Takes Judge Aback

BATON ROUGE, La. (AP) — District Judge Melvin Shortess, fresh from taking his oath of office, was a bit taken aback by the first case on his court docket.

The defendant was Gov. John McKeithen, who appointed Shortess to the court vacancy. The suit challenged the constitutionality of a new amendment to the state constitution, which would allow the appointment of judges by the state legislature.

Sirhan Trial Dilemma Posed On Penalties

Juror Opposed
To Executions
Brings Challenge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial faces a legal dilemma over the seating of prospective jurors who oppose the death penalty under any circumstances.

The prosecution is challenging the seating of Alvina Alvirez, who told the court Wednesday she could judge the guilt or innocence of Sirhan—the 24-year-old Jordanian charged with slaying Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—but could not return a death penalty verdict “for any crime under any circumstances.”

Recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions have reversed murder convictions because persons opposed to the death penalty were excluded from the jury.

Judge Herbert W. Walker is expected to rule on the matter today. If he does rule that Mrs. Alvirez could be a prospective juror, the prosecution could force her removal later under one of its peremptory challenges.

Mrs. Alvirez' testimony and the legal fireworks that followed highlighted the sixth day of the trial, which also included a good-natured outburst from Sirhan.

Three male prospective jurors were tentatively seated Wednesday joining the four women chosen earlier.

Mrs. Alvirez, an employee of a hardware firm, was the first of 21 prospective jurors to say she had conscientious objections to the death penalty.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper argued that “we have a right to this juror (Mrs. Alvirez) on the question of guilt or innocence.”

Judge Walker rejected two prosecution challenges to the woman's seating but gave Deputy Prosecutor David N. Fitts permission to argue the seating again today.

Sirhan, 24, appeared in unusually good spirits Wednesday upon entering the court. He walked briskly to the counsel table, blowing smoke from a just-finished cigarette.

Testimony Scheduled In Cincinnati Maiming

CINCINNATI (AP) — Testimony was scheduled to begin today in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in the trial of Charles Dunigan, 16-year-old Negro accused of maiming a white teen-aged girl during rioting here last Aug. 16.

Marcie Lynn Cox, 18, of Middletown, lost sight in her right eye when she was struck with a bottle. She and three companions drove through the Avondale district, center of the disturbance, and were stopped by a group of Negroes. An all-white jury will hear the case.

Wilberforce Student Union Blaze Probed

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Fire demolished the student union building on the troubled campus of Wilberforce University early today, causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

Two security guards spotted flames in the print shop and by the time firemen arrived, the blaze had spread from one end of the brick building to the other.

Eddie Hawkins, fire chief of Xenia Township North, said he had asked for an investigation by the state fire marshal's office but added that he had nothing definite to indicate arson.

Students have been boycotting classes at the university for several days and demonstrated briefly Wednesday in front of the president's office. Reportedly, they have been protesting dormitory and the dismissal of 75 students for low academic standing.

Hawkins said the student union building might have been saved “if more water had been available.”

The chief explained that only one hose could be connected to a hydrant near the building.

“We found another hydrant nearby but it had the wrong type of fittings,” Hawkins added.

Pumpers were brought in by firemen from surrounding areas to help combat the fire which Hawkins surmised started in the print shop.

The one-story structure also contained a post office, a publication office, a snack bar and the music department for the university.

Estimates of the loss were made by Lorrie Alexander, dean of men.

Earlier, the university announced it was negotiating with the demonstrators in an attempt to restore peace to the campus.

“We have no statement to make at this time,” said President Rembert Stokes.

Student leaders also decline comment.

4 Ohio Men Reported Dead In Vietnam War

They were:

Army Spec. 4 Charles K. Day, husband of Mrs. Kathy A. Day, 805 S. Main St., Springboro.

Army Pfc. Norman L. Von Ahrens, husband of Mrs. Sandra G. Von Ahrens, 1905 Sentinal Rd., Holland.

Army Pfc. Darrell E. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Miller, 2617 Howey Rd., Columbus.

Army Pfc. James T. Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elsie D. Rush, 652 S. Wayne St., Piquette.

Lennon Says Beatles Firm Losing Money; Changes Set

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon said in an interview published today that he and his fellow Beatles will be broke in six months if their organization—Apple—goes on losing money at the present rate.

Lennon's statement immediately brought a denial that the company was in deep financial trouble but an admission that its management is undergoing change.

The interview with Lennon was published by a pop music weekly, Disc and Music Echo. In it the 28-year-old Beatle was quoted as saying:

“We haven't got half the money people think we have. It's been pie-in-the-sky from the start. Apple's losing money every week because it needs close running by a big businessman.”

“It doesn't need to make vast profits but if it carries on like this all of us will be broke in the next six months.”

The $2.4 million company was set up with interest covering music publishing, television, shops, movies and electronics.

Its headquarters in London's Savile Row—bought for $1.2 million a year ago—has a staff of 30 to 40 persons.

“Apple needs a new broom and a lot of people there will have to go,” Lennon said.

An official of the company commented: “Let the quote rest.”

But later Apple issued a statement saying managerial changes were being made.

Road Building Funds A Local Problem

CLEVELAND (AP) — There will be sufficient federal and state funds for proposed highway improvements in northern Ohio between now and 1990, but not enough local funds, the Cleveland Seven-County Transportation Land Use Study (SCOTS) was told Wednesday by its legal analyst.

Kenneth D. Korosec told the group that it will be up to each community to find ways of obtaining funds to pay its share of the matching funds for the roads, and still additional funds to maintain the roads.

Cabinet Appointees Facing Easy Road — Except Hickel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel promised today that as secretary of the interior he would work with Congress to develop and conserve all of the nation's natural resources.

Under fire from conservationists since his nomination to the Cabinet post in the Nixon administration, Hickel said he realized his responsibilities would be vastly different from those as the governor of a state.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., the committee chairman, said that questions raised about failure to make a complete record of Hickel's views would be a disservice to Hickel and to the public.

Hickel himself has blamed much of the opposition to his appointment on a misunderstanding of remarks he made after President-elect Nixon announced his selection for the Interior post.

In an opening statement Wednesday, he told the Senate committee that “in every event, all decisions I will make will be governed by the broad national need and interest.”

He also told the senators they might be interested in knowing he is the only state governor “who has seized an ocean-going vessel for dumping oil wastes in coastal waters.”

The dumping violated Alaska's pollution laws, he said.

Hickel, reviewing the varied responsibilities of the Interior Department, said they presented many challenges on which he hoped to work with Congress “in a spirit of constructive cooperation.”

Hickel, an exponent of rapid industrial development in his state, has alarmed conservationists with statement that indicated he would not be opposed to modifying some Interior regulations in the interest of industrialization.

The Senate Armed Services Committee was expected to ask David Packard named deputy secretary of defense, to explain his plan for placing $300 million worth of Hewlett-Packard stock in trust, instead of selling it as required to do since 1947.

Other secretaries-designate appearing before Senate committees today are William P. Rogers, state; John Volpe, transportation, and Maurice Stans, commerce.

Elliott Richardson, tapped for the No. 2 State Department post of undersecretary, appears with Rogers at a closed-door session of the Foreign Relations Committee. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said he ordered the private hearing so the two men could be questioned about policy.

Senate hearings on the Nixon appointments started Tuesday and produced these developments:

Melvin R. Laird, Wisconsin congressman named secretary of defense, told the Armed Services Committee that while the United States “should always negotiate from a position of strength,” that strength should be attained “at the lowest possible cost,” because of the many nonmilitary needs of the federal budget.

Chicago banker David H. Kennedy, to be secretary of the Treasury, testified before the

Sirhan Trial Dilemma Posed On Penalties

Juror Opposed
To Executions
Brings Challenge

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The judge in the Sirhan Bishara Sirhan murder trial faces a legal dilemma over the seating of prospective jurors who oppose the death penalty under any circumstances.

The prosecution is challenging the seating of Alvina Alvirez, who told the court Wednesday she could judge the guilt or innocence of Sirhan—the 24-year-old Jordanian charged with slaying Sen. Robert F. Kennedy—but could not return a death penalty verdict “for any crime under any circumstances.”

Recent U.S. Supreme Court decisions have reversed murder convictions because persons opposed to the death penalty were excluded from the jury.

Judge Herbert W. Walker is expected to rule on the matter today. If he does rule that Mrs. Alvirez could be a prospective juror, the prosecution could force her removal later under one of its peremptory challenges.

Mrs. Alvirez' testimony and the legal fireworks that followed highlighted the sixth day of the trial, which also included a good-natured outburst from Sirhan.

Three male prospective jurors were tentatively seated Wednesday joining the four women chosen earlier.

Mrs. Alvirez, an employee of a hardware firm, was the first of 21 prospective jurors to say she had conscientious objections to the death penalty.

Chief defense counsel Grant B. Cooper argued that “we have a right to this juror (Mrs. Alvirez) on the question of guilt or innocence.”

Judge Walker rejected two prosecution challenges to the woman's seating but gave Deputy Prosecutor David N. Fitts permission to argue the seating again today.

Sirhan, 24, appeared in unusually good spirits Wednesday upon entering the court. He walked briskly to the counsel table, blowing smoke from a just-finished cigarette.

Testimony Scheduled In Cincinnati Maiming

CINCINNATI (AP) — Testimony was scheduled to begin today in Hamilton County Common Pleas Court in the trial of Charles Dunigan, 16-year-old Negro accused of maiming a white teen-aged girl during rioting here last Aug. 16.

Marcie Lynn Cox, 18, of Midletown, lost sight in her right eye when she was struck with a bottle. She and three companions drove through the Avondale district, center of the disturbance, and were stopped by a group of Negroes. An all-white jury will hear the case.

Wilberforce Student Union Blaze Probed

WILBERFORCE, Ohio (AP) — Fire demolished the student union building on the troubled campus of Wilberforce University early today, causing an estimated $100,000 damage.

Two security guards spotted flames in the print shop and by the time firemen arrived, the blaze had spread from one end of the brick building to the other.

Eddie Hawkins, fire chief of Xenia Township North, said he had asked for an investigation by the state fire marshal's office but added that he had nothing definite to indicate arson.

Students have been boycotting classes at the university for several days and demonstrated briefly Wednesday in front of the president's office. Reportedly, they have been protesting dormitory and the dismissal of 75 students for low academic standing.

Hawkins said the student union building might have been saved “if more water had been available.”

The chief explained that only one hose could be connected to a hydrant near the building.

“We found another hydrant nearby but it had the wrong type of fittings,” Hawkins added.

Pumpers were brought in by firemen from surrounding areas to help combat the fire which Hawkins surmised started in the print shop.

The one-story structure also contained a post office, a publication office, a snack bar and the music department for the university.

Estimates of the loss were made by Lorrie Alexander, dean of men.

Earlier, the university announced it was negotiating with the demonstrators in an attempt to restore peace to the campus.

“We have no statement to make at this time,” said President Rembert Stokes.

Student leaders also decline comment.

Lennon Says Beatles Firm Losing Money; Changes Set

LONDON (AP) — John Lennon said in an interview published today that he and his fellow Beatles will be broke in six months if their organization—Apple—goes on losing money at the present rate.

Lennon's statement immediately brought a denial that the company was in deep financial trouble but an admission that its management is undergoing change.

The interview with Lennon was published by a pop music weekly, Disc and Music Echo. In it the 28-year-old Beatle was quoted as saying:

“We haven't got half the money people think we have. It's been pie-in-the-sky from the start. Apple's losing money every week because it needs close running by a big businessman.

“It doesn't need to make vast profits but if it carries on like this all of us will be broke in the next six months.”

The $2.4 million company was set up with interest covering music publishing, television, shops, movies and electronics.

Its headquarters in London's Savile Row—bought for $1.2 million a year ago—has a staff of 30 to 40 persons.

“Apple needs a new broom and a lot of people there will have to go,” Lennon said.

An official of the company commented: “Let the quote rest.”

But later Apple issued a statement saying managerial changes were being made.

Road Building Funds A Local Problem

CLEVELAND (AP) — There will be sufficient federal and state funds for proposed highway improvements in northern Ohio between now and 1990, but not enough local funds, the Cleveland Seven-County Transportation Land Use Study (SCOTS) was told Wednesday by its legal analyst.

Kenneth D. Korosec told the group that it will be up to each community to find ways of obtaining funds to pay its share of the matching funds for the roads, and still additional funds to maintain the roads.

4 Ohio Men Reported Dead In Vietnam War

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Defense Department announced Wednesday the names of four more Ohio servicemen killed in action in Vietnam.

They were:

Army Spec. 4 Charles K. Day, husband of Mrs. Kathy A. Day, 805 S. Main St., Springboro.

Army Pfc. Norman L. Von Ahrens, husband of Mrs. Sandra G. Von Ahrens, 1905 Sentical Rd., Holiland.

Army Pfc. Darrell E. Miller, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold E. Miller, 2617 Howey Rd., Columbus.

Army Pfc. James T. Rush, son of Mr. and Mrs. Elsie D. Rush, 652 S. Wayne St., Pique.

Cabinet Appointees Facing Easy Road — Except Hickel

WASHINGTON (AP)—Alaska Gov. Walter J. Hickel promised today that as secretary of the interior he would work with Congress to develop and conserve all of the nation's natural resources.

Under fire from conservationists since his nomination to the Cabinet post in the Nixon administration, Hickel said he realized his responsibilities would be vastly different from those as the governor of a state.

Sen. Henry Jackson, D-Wash., the committee chairman, said that questions raised about failure to make a complete record of Hickel's views would be a disservice to Hickel and to the public.

Hickel himself has blamed much of the opposition to his appointment on a misunderstanding of remarks he made after President-elect Nixon announced his selection for the Interior post.

In an opening statement Wednesday, he told the Senate committee that “in every event, all decisions I will make will be governed by the broad national need and interest.”

He also told the senators they might be interested in knowing he is the only state governor “who has seized an ocean-going vessel for dumping oil wastes in coastal waters.”

The dumping violated Alaska's pollution laws, he said.

Hickel, reviewing the varied responsibilities of the Interior Department, said they presented many challenges on which he hoped to work with Congress “in a spirit of constructive cooperation.”

Hickel, an exponent of rapid industrial development in his state, has alarmed conservationists with statement that indicated he would not be opposed to modifying some Interior regulations in the interest of industrialization.

The Senate Armed Services Committee was expected to ask David Packard named deputy secretary of defense, to explain his plan for placing $300 million worth of Hewlett-Packard stock in trust, instead of selling it as top Pentagon officials have been required to do since 1947.

Other secretaries-designate appearing before Senate committees today are William P. Rogers, state; John Volpe, transportation, and Maurice Stans, commerce.

Elliott Richardson, tapped for the No. 2 State Department post of undersecretary, appears with Rogers at a closed-door session of the Foreign Relations Committee. Chairman J. William Fulbright, D-Ark., said he ordered the private hearing so the two men could be questioned about policy.

Senate hearings on the Nixon appointments started Tuesday and produced these developments:

Melvin R. Laird, Wisconsin congressman named secretary of defense, told the Armed Services Committee that while the United States “should always negotiate from a position of strength,” that strength should be attained “at the lowest possible cost,” because of the many nonmilitary needs of the federal budget.

Chicago banker David H. Kennedy, to be secretary of the Treasury, testified before the Finance Committee that he advocates “the earliest possible” end to the 10 per cent income surtax, but he set no deadline.

Robert H. Finch, California lieutenant governor named secretary of health, education and welfare, told the same committee the “cutting edge” of his new job would be a new, overall approach to social problems. “Nobody is happy with the present welfare system,” he said.

Dear Abby: Have Confidence In Your Doctor

DEAR ABBY: A year ago I started seeing a lady psychiatrist about my problems (I am a man). I have always had a "thing" about doctors, and if I am going to talk about my innermost thoughts, I would feel more relaxed calling her "Emily."

I asked her last week if I could call her "Emily," and she said no, she wanted me to call her "Doctor." Why?

My cousin is also a psychiatrist, and he said if a patient wanted to call him "Sandor" (his name), he wouldn't object, because the most important thing is to make the patient feel comfortable. I think he is right and I would like your opinion.

ON THE COUCH
DEAR ON: You are not on your cousin's couch, so don't ask him for professional help. The reason you want to call your doctor "Emily" is obviously because you would like to be on a more personal basis with her. She prefers to keep the relationship strictly professional, for which I don't blame her.

The "most important thing" is for you to have confidence in your own therapist, and abide by her wishes.

DEAR ABBY: I met this guy about a month ago and we hit it off right from the start. He's good looking, very successful in his business, and he is great company. I flipped for him. So what's my problem? He smells like my ex-husband, and this turns me off. I haven't got the nerve to tell him to use some other kind of cologne or after-shave, but so help me, Abby, when he gets close to me, the smell of him brings back so many memories, both happy and painful that I am turned off!

Am I crazy? And how can this problem be solved?

TURNED OFF
DEAR TURNED OFF: You are not crazy, and your problem can be easily solved. Buy the gentleman ANOTHER brand of cologne and after-shave and ask him to wear it just for you. If he's as great as you say he is, you won't mind paying thru the nose.

DEAR ABBY: May I suggest how "HURT AGAIN" may help her forgetful husband to "remember" her birthday, anniversary and other occasions.

Put little notes around where he will be sure to see them. "Only 10 more shopping days until my birthday," or "only 5 more shopping days until our anniversary."

I also have a wonderful husband who has a lot on his mind and "forgets" occasions about which I am sentimental, but I have used this little trick—and it works.

NEVER HURT
DEAR ABBY: I have just two words to say to these switchboard operators who complain about the wives calling their husbands at work to talk about nothing: "SHUT UP!" It is none of their business. Besides, what are they doing listening in on personal calls, anyway?

Views on Television

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — During an awkward moment when it was important to say something light and merry to lead to a station break, "Music Halls" star Jack Jones suggested that he and his guest artist play a game called "Television."

"First we sing a song, and then there's a commercial," explained Jones in one of those naked moments of truth—and off we went to a mayonnaise pitch.

It should be noted that in television there usually is time for two songs or a song and a comedy sketch between commercials.

On dramatic shows, the commercial break often seems to be worked out as carefully as cliff-hanger conclusions to soap opera episodes: Our hero steps into the hot noon sun of the Cowntown main street and there stands his arch enemy hand reaching for his gun—and we fade right into the automobile sales talk. Or the clever international spy is intently rifling the bad guy's safe when the bad guy appears, gun in hand. And on comes the cigarette spiel.

None of these interruptions is quite as annoying as those that turn up in small bunches during old feature movie broadcasts. Motion pictures, of course, were made for theatre audiences and without any regard for pausing every 15 minutes or so for some messages. So the messages are inserted, sometimes brutally, when the time—not the story line is right.

Wednesday brought a rather quiet, relaxed evening of television viewing. "Daktari" sang its swan song, departing CBS as it arrived, with Judy the chimp and Clarence the lion the real stars.

"The Virginian" on NBC devoted its 90 minutes to an involved tale that could easily have been adapted to "Peyton Place." The white-hat ranch hand killed a black-hat trespass-

Hannibal Locks Eyed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A $12 million request from Congress to build the Hannibal Locks is the largest Ohio water project on President Johnson's list. The President's total appropriations request of $49 million for the state also included $11.3 million for the Racine Locks and Dams, with both projects to be shared with West Virginia.

Undersecretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach sent a memorandum to the arms control agency Monday saying a new investigation showed the issuance of a security clearance to Davies would be clearly consistent with the interests of national security, officials said Tuesday.

The undersecretary, in ordering the investigation, was acting for Secretary of State Dean Rusk, who had disqualified himself in self-defense, then worried about it until, near the end of the show, a second shoot-out justified his act.

Like "Bonanza," the series presents the Old West and its men and women in such a sweet light. In the last episode the saloon girl was, as she often is in television, a nice kid, and something of a heroine as well.

Jones, this week's "Music Hall" topliner sang nicely but there was plenty of built-in trouble with the comedy material provided Debbie Reynolds and Godfrey Cambridge—and they both tried hard.

"Hawaii Five-O" continued to be preoccupied with narcotics and "The Outsider" got mixed up with some dreadful super-patriots. The show however established some sort of a record—star Darren McGavin only was beaten up twice and knocked cold once.

Nixon Backs Longer Tax Cautiously

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon, about to take charge of a war-swollen federal budget, has pledged to support President Johnson's recommendation that the 10 percent income surtax be continued—until "the facts we face" permit repeal.

"It remains my conviction that the surcharge should end as soon as requirements for the war, the budget outlook and economic conditions will permit," Nixon said Tuesday night. "It is my understanding that President Johnson shares this same view."

His understanding was carefully orchestrated.

The words Nixon used in a statement to describe his position, and those Johnson included in his farewell State of the Union message were virtually identical.

Said Nixon: "Until the new administration and the Congress can ascertain that the facts we face justify permitting the surtax to expire or to be reduced, I will support the President's suggestion that the surcharge be continued."

And Johnson, before a joint meeting of Congress: "The President-elect has concluded that—until his administration and the Congress can ascertain that the facts justify permitting the surtax to expire or to be reduced—he will support my recommendation that it be continued."

Report On Scuffle

CLEVELAND (AP) — Cleveland State University President Harold L. Endarson said Wednesday he will ask for faculty reports about a CSU-sponsored poetry-reading event at which black power advocate LeRoi Jones read.

Whites in the audience reportedly were forced to leave and scuffles resulted Tuesday night.

Flu! Flu!
In tune with the times we have a number of flu victims. Dick Barton is up and around after being quite ill and is helping do the farm chores for his up-the-road neighbor, Lester Wolford who has been housebound for several days. Lester's wife Wilmina is somewhat improved as is Gladys (Mrs. Jack) Arledge after a long bout with the flu.

Herbert Justice has been discharged from Fayette Memorial Hospital but still continues under his doctor's care. A heart patient, Mr. Justice needed more intensive care with his flu bugs.

One of our most well liked and well-known citizens Mrs. Fred (Est) Tipton has been bedfast for several days and so has her son Tom. Daughter Martha (Mrs. John) Hansen came down from Columbus last Thursday and stayed until Sunday. Justine (Mrs. Earl) Anderson has been caring for the Tiptons since then.

Mrs. Fannie Follrod who took ill at church Sunday is ever so much better. All her friends will be glad to know.

Mrs. Follrod is grateful to Mrs. Paul (Irene) Fenstermaker and all the others who assisted her.

Mrs. F. had just returned home a week ago from a month's visit with her son Mr. John Kirkpatrick and his wife of Falls Church, Va. She also visited with her six grandchildren and their families and enjoyed being with her 12 great-grandchildren. Flying by Jet back to Dayton she was met by her daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Clark Bush and spent two weeks with them at their home in Dayton. The evening I phoned, Mr. and Mrs. Van Meter Hulse and Mrs. Sanford Picklesimer were visiting with her.

Just generally not feeling too well is Mrs. Maybelle (William) Heiskell. Visiting with her Sunday afternoon were Bill and Rita Heiskell, former residents but now Circleville citizens, and their daughter Sharon. Greg and Debbie Heiskell were unable to visit grandmother due to other activities. They are at that busy time of life — high school teen-agers.

Back on the job Monday was Barbara Jo McDill after being home since last Wednesday night recuperating from accident injuries suffered when she and her roommate, Palma Welch were involved in a collision on icy Route 23. Palma and Barb had gone from their Columbus apartment to Ashville to wish Palma's mother, Lucy (of Lucy's Beauty Shop) happy birthday.

Dolly Thompson is having trouble getting to sleep since the terrible accident in their driveway, Monday afternoon, when the young boy from Michigan driving at a terrific rate of speed lost control at the Woodlyn railroad crossing. So many local people were quite shaken about the whole thing and the "if" situations. Harold Mace, prominent farmer in the area, was reportedly just crossing the tracks and preparing to make a left-hand turn in to Heifner Elevator.

Having a gay good time ice skating on the pond at Dr. and Mrs. H. W. Fraas' were members of the Jr. MYF Sunday evening. A huge bonfire glowed to add to the fun. Adult leaders were Mr. Joe Wright and Mr. Byron Carter. Refreshments of hot chocolate and other goodies were under the supervision of Mrs. Fraas, Mrs. Eliwyn Hulse, Ann Hamric and Debbie Hulse.

Oh! joy supreme — last Wednesday evening our Jackson Junior High won a basketball game. Like all the others played it was a good game and all the boys tried so hard — both teams. Seems a shame they both couldn't win but in a way they do — their attitude can make a team a winner or loser no matter what the score. After so many losses it was elation to be high scorers. However, there was no joy in Easterdayville that night — mighty Marc had fouled out!

It fell the lot of yours truly to be chairman of the nominating committee for Sorosis this year. The slate of officers will be presented at the meeting, Monday, Jan. 20, to be held in the home of Mrs. Ray Valone. Committee members also are Mrs. Cooke Metzger and Mrs. Eugene Bush.

Happy Birthday
Belated greetings to Sandy Duvall, Jan. 14; Vallie Cochenour, Jan. 18; Donna Thompson, Jan. 19; Patti Garrison, Jan. 19; Larry Eicher, Jan. 20; Earl Anderson, Jan. 21; Paul Whitesed Jan. 21; Tony Lightle (ace basketball player) Jan. 22.

A family gathering last Tuesday evening at the home of Bob and Pat Metzger and daughters Lori and Crystal celebrated the birthdays of Pat's mother, Mrs. Wesley Jones of near Washington C. H. and her niece Jodi James of Circleville. Singing happy birthday to the honored guests were Mr. and Mrs. Ron James, Keith and Scott of Circleville, Mr. Wesley Jones and the hosts.

Another happy birthday family affair was for sweet little Marci Thompson, daughter of Brad and Donna Thompson. She was one year old last Saturday and having supper with her were grandparents Paul and Jean Thompson and Aunt Janelle, Uncle Mike and Aunt Gail Stauffer and cousin Brent, Uncle Dave and Aunt Janet Lovett and cousin Trent of Athens and grandparents Charlie and Esther Picklesimer and Aunt Faith (little Charlie) at whose home the get together was held. Stopping in to wish his "Flipper" happy birthday was great-grandpa Darl Miller.

The evening before (Friday Jan. 10) Marci was christened in the Williamsport United Methodist Church with members of the immediate family present and Rev. Ed Linville officiating.

The occasion was memorable in that grandparents Paul and Jean Thompson were also celebrating their 28th wedding anniversary.

The christening had been scheduled during Sunday services but due to a mix-up in orders Brad had to return to base earlier than originally thought and so had to leave early Sunday morning. Hence the change.

The Lovetts remained overnight Saturday with Janet's mom and family and Dave and Janet visited a while with Wes and Carolyn Edstrom of Circleville.

Shirley and Helen Stant and son John of Whisler and the Lovetts were Sunday dinner guests of the Picklesimers and also little Beth Miller who will be living with them until school is dismissed for the summer.

Climbing aboard a jet at 8:20 a.m. Friday morning was Mrs. Darl Miller on her way to Florida for a four to six weeks visit with her sister Mrs. Della Raub.

Wedding Anniversary
There is nothing more fun than to "pull off" a really, truly, surprise party and indeed surprised were Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Long on their 40th wedding anniversary, Sunday, Jan. 12.

Chief instigator was their daughter, Mrs. Robert Morgan. A buffet style dinner was held at her home and helping with the surprise were her husband and children Nancy, Ned and Bruce and the guests, Mr. and Mrs. Dwight Reid, (daughter Ruth) and their children Janet and Gerald of Madison Mills, Mr. and Mrs. Eldon Long, Jay, Jeff and Vanessa, Mr. Paul Long and Joyce of Williamsport, (Eldon and Paul are sons) Miss Florence Long (a daughter) Mr. Ben Long (a nephew) and Mr. and Mrs. Shirley Anderson (Mr. Long's sister) near Mt. Sterling.

Congratulations, best wishes, many more happy years and all sorts of good thoughts go on their way to those perennial honeymooners, Walter and Elsie Wright who will celebrate 48 years together on Jan. 20.

A local card club bade farewell to one of the members, Cora (Mrs. Ron) Beatty, the other evening who is "dropping out" due to a conflict of meeting dates. A "party" was held after cards were played. Everyone sang "Auld Lang Syne" and gifted the departee with such things as, her favorite perfume, pork and beans, juices, old maid cards, artificial fruit with basket, and a "mug shot" (picture). Several "gifts" had poems attached and original is the kindest word to be said for the literary efforts. Enjoying the evening were: Mrs. David Drummond, Mrs. Purl Cochenour, Mrs. Harvey Looney, Mrs. Stanley Underwood, Mrs. Darrel Wiscup, Mrs. William Easterday, Mrs.

David Duvali (substituting for Mrs. Mike McCafferty who had the flu) and Mrs. Beatty.

Watch Bob Hope
In a recent letter to his mother, Mrs. Betty McAllister, one of our boys, David McAllister relates he saw the Bob Hope Christmas Show, Dec. 24, at his base, Chu Lai, and there is a possibility with all the film taken he could be in it. We will all be glued to our sets watching. What a thrill that would be to catch a glimpse of our not so long ago little neighbor boy and now all grown up and defending his country.

On Dec. 23rd, Dave went to Da Nang and spent the day with another local boy, Bob Whaley. They had a really great visit — made tapes and sent them home.

Dave remarked he received a large number of Christmas cards and was very happy and grateful. His mom sends the news clipping to him along with others and we wish you nothing but the best at all times, David. The only son of Betty and Clark McAllister, he is a graduate of Westfall and has one sister, Marilyn.

As I said before, Larry Whaley got to Da Nang, Dec. 25 and on a tape home said he was the happiest boy in Vietnam to be with his brother. He also remarked he only got to go because the boys in his company worked until midnight every night for nearly a month to get supplies in order and catalogued properly so there would be no "hang ups" while he was gone.

On the way Larry met briefly with C.W.O. Brent Hanawalt which was a big thrill, too — being old class mates and all.

The boys conducted interviews with each other on the tapes. They said there was not much action at Pleiku but plenty at Da Nang; both looked fine; Bob rec'd his boxes but Larry hadn't as yet; they didn't care for all the sand; Bob was to go on R & R (rest and recreation) Jan. 13 at Bangkok, Thailand. The boys are sons of Bob and Elsie Whaley.

An interesting side item: During World War II, Elsie had two brothers to meet in the South Pacific and Bob had two brothers that met in the European theatre of action. Is that what you call history repeating itself?

Senior Citizen
A gentle lady, kind soul and good neighbor is Mrs. George (Ethel) King.

Born April 26, 1896 to Jacob and RoseAnne Jones, she is a native of Gallion County.

One year she attended the Pumpkin Show and so did George King of Ross County. Through a fate of circumstances they met, fell in love and were married Dec. 31, 1920. This union produced five children (3 girls and 2 boys), 26 grandchildren and 10 great-grandchildren.

Mrs. King is not a stranger to the adversities of life and one of many was the death of her husband on Oct. 1, 1960.

Another is taking place now — she is and has been quite ill — hospitalized but now with her daughter, Viola Adams.

Why not send this dear soul a card — a big shower of cards! To receive a card means so much (I know — I was very ill myself three or four years ago) and it costs so little to bring a bit of cheer. Send your cards to: Mrs. Ethel King, Box 299, Williamsport, Ohio, 43164.

CHS Tigers Seek 2nd League Win

Circleville basketball team will be seeking to avenge an earlier loss when the Tigers host Greenfield McClain Friday. The first time the two teams met on the McClain floor, the Red and Black, lost, 62-61, in overtime.

The Tigers have the home court advantage this time and Coach Garold Sowders is looking toward the third win of the season.

Both Greenfield and Circleville have identical 2-8 records. But both of Greenfield's wins have been in the South Central Ohio League. They are in fourth place, behind unbeaten Miami Trace, once-beaten Washington C. H. and twice-beaten Wilmington.

STATISTICS give a slight edge to Circleville in this meeting. The Tigers are averaging 63.1 points a game compared to 55.1 for Greenfield. Defensively, Circleville has allowed an average of 72.2 points a game while Greenfield's foes have averaged 73.7 points against them.

Both of Greenfield's wins have been by one point margins. The McClain cagers have also stopped Hillsboro, 64-63.

Circleville's leading scorer this season is Randy Halley, the junior guard has a 10-game average of 14.7. His high was

Jerry Kroll Dave Moser

RANKED HIGHLY—The Davidson college team continues to rank among the nation's best, coached by Charles G. (Lefty) Driesell, who has an eight-year mark there of 149 wins, 62 losses. Head man is 6'7" Mike Maloy, who is averaging 22 points a game. Jerry Kroll is averaging 18 points a game. The North Carolina team stands at 9-1.

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP)—Hank Stram wouldn't dispute for a minute that Joe Namath is a great quarterback, but he doesn't think that gives any edge to the East team in Sunday's American Football League All-Star game.

"We think we have two great quarterbacks," said coach of the West All-Stars. His signal callers are San Diego's John Hahl and his own Kansas City chief, Len Dawson.

Just as Namath will have familiar pass receivers in his New York Jet teammates, George Sauer and Bon Maynard, Hahl will have San Diego compatriots.

The West squad of pass receivers includes Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison from San Diego. As a replacement for Billy Cannon of Oakland at tight end, Hahl got a bonus in teammate Jacques MacKinnon.

"Add to that group Bob Trumpy of Cincinnati and Warren Wells of Oakland and you can see that we have super receivers for our great quarterbacks," Stram said.

Because none of his West players had seen action in at least three weeks, Stram worked them twice a day Monday through Wednesday and tapered off to once today.

"Our timing is coming a long," he said, "and I think we've caught up with the East in conditioning."

The 11 members of the world champion Jets on the East team had the advantage, as Stram sees it, of playing in the Super Bowl last Sunday.

Lemm, Houston Oilers coach guiding the East All-Stars, had a ragged session Wednesday when the Jets joined the team for the first time.

"We will put it together by Friday," Lemm said with an unworried look. "These are pros and they will be ready to play."

'Pinkey' Higgins Off To Prison

RUSTON, La. (AP) — Michael "Pinkey" Higgins, former manager of the Boston Red Sox, is scheduled to leave today for the state penitentiary to begin a four-year sentence for negligent homicide.

Higgins, 59, pleaded guilty to the charge in connection with an auto accident in which one man was killed and several injured on Feb. 27, 1968.

Penn Stall Beats Villanova, 32-30

By HERSCHEL NISSENSEN
Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wildcats of Villanova ran afoul of the cool cats of Pennsylvania Wednesday night.

The result was a Penn slowdown that left Villanova Coach Jack Kraft doing a slow burn after the unheralded Quakers upset the ninth-ranked Wildcats 32-30.

The only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action was the fourth-ranked Davidson Wildcats, who scratched out a 90-82 triumph over stubborn Wake Forest.

A long jump shot by sophomore Steve Bilsky with three seconds left gave Penn its dramatic victory and saddled Villanova with its second loss in 12 starts.

The Quakers froze the ball after Villanova's high-scoring Howard Porter, who managed only three points all night, missed a free throw with 3:35 remaining. Villanova stayed in its zone and finally Penn called time out with 26 seconds left and again five seconds later.

"The play was set up for either me or Dave Wohl to take a jumper," Bilsky explained. "I looked at the clock and saw there were only seven seconds left. It was a little further out than I usually shoot from, but I knew there wouldn't be time to set up a better shot."

Coach Dick Harter, who resorted to the slowdown several times in the past, was ecstatic. "I can't believe it," he said. "Villanova's the best team we've played since I've been here."

Ecstatic doesn't quite describe Kraft's feelings. "What can I say?" he yelled. "I tried everything I could to make them play, but they wouldn't. I'm not about to fault Dick. It's what he felt he had to do to win, and he won.

"I feel bad for our kids. I feel bad that we lost that way. I would have liked it better if we'd gotten bombed. But that's the game of basketball. You've got to expect everything. The last thing I told the boys when they went out on the court was to watch for the slowdown."

Penn led 19-18 at halftime and the winning shot made Bilsky the game's high scorer with 10 points.

Davidson made 30 of 44 free throws to turn back Wake Forest. It was the Wildcats' 11th triumph in 12 games.

They opened up six-point leads several times in the first half, but Wake Forest caught up each time. The Wildcats then broke away from a 43-41 half-time lead to a nine-point margin midway through the second half behind Mike Maloy and Jerry Kroll, who scored 27 and 23 points, respectively.

Wake Forest closed to 80-76 with 2½ minutes left but Mike O'Neill scored six of his 12 points down the stretch to clinch the victory.

Twelfth-ranked Duquesne breezed past St. Francis, Pa. 79-55 in a game marred by a melee that saw two of the losers taken to a hospital for treatment of facial cuts.

The skirmish erupted with 8½ minutes left when Duquesne's Gary Major fouled Bill Snodgrass of St. Francis. Garry and Barry Nelson, the Dukes' 6-foot-9 twins, also suffered cuts about the face.

Earlier in the game, Duquesne Coach Red Manning threatened to pull his team off the court when St. Francis tried to use a freshman. The Frankies are allowed to use freshmen in certain games because of the school's small enrollment.

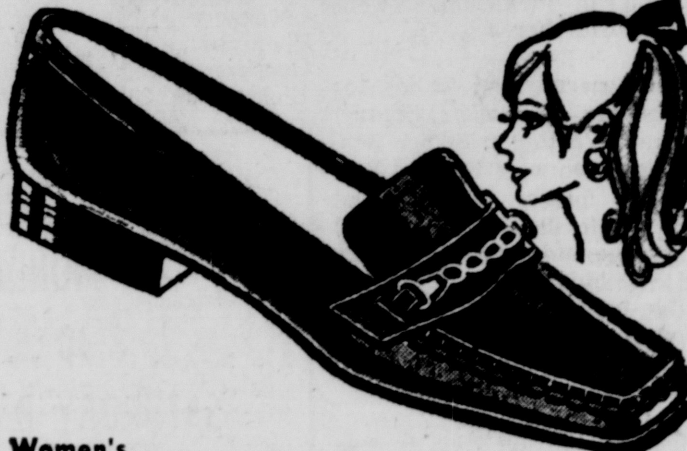

Notre Dame, ranked 16th, whipped Detroit 84-77 despite 30 points by Olympic star Spencer Haywood of the Titans and two technical fouls against Coach Johnny Dee, his first in 61 games.

Detroit led 44-40 at halftime but Notre Dame caught up at 68-61 and ran off the next six points, four by Bob Arzen, who paced the Irish with 23 points.

The game marks the start of the second round of play in the South Central Ohio League.

Hank Stram Not Afraid Of Joe Namath

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) —Hank Stram wouldn't dispute for a minute that Joe Namath is a great quarterback, but he doesn't think that gives any edge to the East team in Sunday's American Football League All-Star game.

"We think we have two great quarterbacks," said coach of the West All-Stars. His signal callers are San Diego's John Hahl and his own Kansas City chief, Len Dawson.

Just as Namath will have familiar pass receivers in his New York Jet teammates, George Sauer and Bon Maynard, Hahl will have San Diego compatriots.

The West squad of pass receivers includes Lance Alworth and Gary Garrison from San Diego. As a replacement for Billy Cannon of Oakland at tight end, Hahl got a bonus in teammate Jacque MacKinnon.

"Add to that group Bob Trumpy of Cincinnati and Warren Wells of Oakland and you can see that we have super receivers for our great quarterbacks," Stram said.

Because none of his West players had seen action in at least three weeks, Stram worked them twice a day Monday through Wednesday and tapered off to once today.

"Our timing is coming along," he said, "and I think we've caught up with the East in conditioning."

The 11 members of the world champion Jets on the East team had the advantage, as Stram sees it, of playing in the Super Bowl last Sunday.

Lemm, Houston Oilers coach guiding the East All-Stars, had a ragged session Wednesday when the Jets joined the team for the first time.

"We will put it together by Friday," Lemm said with an unworried look. "These are pros and they will be ready to play."

'Pinkey' Higgins Off To Prison

RUSTON, La. (AP) — Michael "Pinkey" Higgins, former manager of the Boston Red Sox, is scheduled to leave today for the state penitentiary to begin a four-year sentence for negligent homicide.

Higgins, 59, pleaded guilty to the charge in connection with an auto accident in which one man was killed and several injured on Feb. 27, 1968.

Penn Stall Beats Villanova, 32-30

By HERSCHEL NISSENSON Associated Press Sports Writer

The Wildcats of Villanova ran afoul of the cool cats of Pennsylvania Wednesday night.

The result was a Penn slowdown that left Villanova Coach Jack Kraft doing a slow burn after the unheralded Quakers upset the ninth-ranked Wildcats 32-30.

The only other team in The Associated Press Top Ten to see action was the fourth-ranked Davidson Wildcats, who scratched out a 90-82 triumph over stubborn Wake Forest.

A long jump shot by sophomore Steve Bilsky with three seconds left gave Penn its dramatic victory and saddled Villanova with its second loss in 12 starts.

The Quakers froze the ball after Villanova's high-scoring Howard Porter, who managed only three points all night, missed a free throw with 3:35 remaining. Villanova stayed in its zone and finally Penn called time out with 26 seconds left and again five seconds later.

"The play was set up for either me or Dave Wohl to take a jumper," Bilsky explained. "I looked at the clock and saw there were only seven seconds

Peter Townsend Opens Kaiser Tilt

NAPA, Calif. (AP) — Peter Townsend, an English sensation who hasn't done so well in the United States, led 11 golfers named Jim or John off four tees on two courses to start the $135,000 Kaiser Open Tournament today.

Because of rain-soaked—but not water-logged—fairways and a threat of frost, the start was delayed until 10 a.m.—1 p.m., EST. The 156 players started from the first or 10th tees on the North and South courses of the Silverado Country Club.

left. It was a little further out than I usually shoot from, but I knew there wouldn't be time to set up a better shot."

Coach Dick Harter, who resorted to the slowdown several times in the past, was ecstatic. "I can't believe it," he said. "Villanova's the best team we've played since I've been here."

Ecstatic doesn't quite describe Kraft's feelings.

"What can I say?" he wailed. "I tried everything I could to make them play, but they wouldn't. I'm not about to fault Dick. It's what he felt he had to

Brown Loses Rick Forzano To Middies

CINCINNATI (AP) — Coach Paul Brown of the Cincinnati Bengals, now looking for a new assistant, says he doesn't blame Rick Forzano for returning to the U.S. Naval Academy — this time as head football coach.

"Our loss is a fine thing for the Naval Academy," Brown said after learning of Forzano's appointment over 200 other candidates.

"It was a chance to run a big time show in his own right and I concur with him, he has to do it," Brown said.

Forzano is credited with a major part in developing Cincinnati's Paul Robinson, the American Football League's rookie-of-the-year.

Forzano goes to Navy on a three-year contract reported to be in the $22,000 a year bracket. He is 40 and a native of Akron, Ohio.

From 1959-64 he was an assistant football coach at the Academy.

Brown said he hasn't lined up anyone for Forzano's offensive backfield coaching job.

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
One plus one equals five as far as the Detroit Red Wings are concerned, and the new math has nothing to do with it. Rookie Paul Popiel's first National Hockey League goal and goalie Roy Edwards' first shut-out sparked the surging Red Wings to their fifth consecutive victory Wednesday night, a 4-0 rout of Montreal that enabled them to vault out of the NHL's East Division cellar into fifth place, one point ahead of idle New York.

Elsewhere, Toronto rallied with two goals in the final 5½ minutes to the Boston 5-3. Surprising Oakland edged Chicago 4-3. St. Louis held off Philadelphia 4-3 and Pittsburgh downed Minnesota 3-1.

any more than necessary. The one-time St. Louis star in the National Basketball Association found it necessary Wednesday night, however, coming off the bench with 3:05 left in overtime and driving his team to a 127-120 American Basketball Association victory over Indiana.

He dropped in two free throws, then whipped three quick passes that Cincy Powell converted into goals and the Chaparrals had it in hand. Powell pumped in 36 points and Ron Boone added 32 to ignite the Dallas attack. In other ABA play the Los Angeles Stars made it six wins out of eight overtime games when they beat Miami 134-129.

Girl Jockey Again Fails In Race Bid

MIAMI, Fla. (AP)—"I'm going to ride and ride and ride. And I'll make it someday," Barbara Jo Rubin said.

But she was disappointed Wednesday.

Male jockeys thwarted her effort to become the first girl rider in American thoroughbred racing history. Now the petite 19-year-old brunette says she's determined to carry on her fight, to take it to court if necessary.

Dressed in the gold and red slacks she had hoped to wear in the fourth race at Tropical Park Wednesday, Barbara Jo told newsmen: "I didn't expect this at all. I was all ready to go. The male jockeys were so nice to me this morning."

Fighting back tears, she added: "I think there were just a few of them who seemed to be against me. But I'm going to try and I hope I'll be the first woman to race some day."

About 100 male jockeys threatened a mass boycott at Tropical if the former exercise girl were allowed to ride a horse named Stoneland in the fourth race.

After a stormy meeting in the jockey room, the 11 jockeys in the third race refused to come out unless Barbara Jo was removed from her horse.

Dayton, Miami Score Basketball Triumphs

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Dayton's Flyers got sweet revenge the hard way and Miami's Redskins kept their Mid-

America Conference slate clean in Ohio college basketball Wednesday night.

Dayton nosed out Louisville, 69-67, thanks to sharp work from the free throw line, getting even for an 84-69 beating at the hands of the Cardinals last month.

Louisville scored four more field goals than Dayton but the Flyers hit on 19 of 35 free throws to more than make up for the difference. Louisville scored on 9 of 18 free throws.

Louisville's Butch Beard, with 20 points, and Mike Groves, with 18, topped scorers. Steve Turnwald was high for Dayton with 17 points.

The Flyers now are 11-2 for the season and Louisville stands at 10-3.

Miami's big gun in the Redskins' fourth straight victory in Mid-American Conference was Walt Williams who scored 22 points and grabbed 17 rebounds.

The Redskins, the only team with an unbeaten mark in MAC play, hit 40.3 per cent of their field goal shots and took advantage of 18 Bobcat turnovers in the first half.

In the only other Mid-American Conference game, Kent State defeated Bowling Green 59-54 with Doug Grayson showing the way with 16 points. Dan McElmore was high scorer for Bowling Green with 15 points.

Marietta nipped Otterbein 73-71 in an Ohio Conference game when Max Hillman hit on a 35-footer in the last second. Hillman led his team with 19 points. Jim McKee scored 21 for Otterbein.

In the only other Ohio Conference action, Wooster rolled over Mt. Union 81-61. Tom Dinger showed the way for the winners with 3 points. Doug Mason scored 22 points for Mt. Union.

Three free throws in the last five seconds — two by Jerry Pavlas and one by Henry Jordan — lifted Cleveland State to a 60-57 victory over Akron. Roger Johnson led scorers with 25 points for Akron. Harvey Smith scored 17 for Cleveland State.

Capital walloped Wilmington 80-67 with Roger Garrison scoring 20 points and Mike Dreeling getting 19. Stan Kiehl led Wilmington scorers with 19 points. Youngstown moved out from a seven-point halftime lead to knock down Steubenville 88-65. John McElroy led Youngstown with 25 points, 18 of them in the second half.

Paris Peace . .

The U.S. delegation spokesman, William J. Jordan, said Harriman still plans to leave on schedule about 1 p.m. Sunday.
Jordan said there remain a number of procedural matters still to be taken up and that the deputy chiefs of delegations will be carrying the ball. He added that he hoped the conference soon could get down to the business of discussing the terms for peace in Vietnam.
There is agreement already on the languages, English and Vietnamese will be official and French will be a working language.
When the delegates gather in the international conference center, they will see one large round table and two small rectangular tables on opposite sides, each about 18 inches from the big table. The seating is up to the delegations.
The South Vietnamese and the Americans declined to say just who proposed the final solution.

Nixon Works In Privacy

KEY BISCAYNE, Fla. (AP) — President-elect Nixon worked and relaxed in privacy and public silence today, as he has since coming to his Florida hideaway two days ago.
Press aide Bruce Whelihan said Nixon was at work on his inaugural address, with the assistance of two newly arrived staff members, Miss Rose Mary Woods, his personal secretary, and Raymond K. Price, a special assistant and speechwriter, arrived Wednesday.
Nixon had no comment on President Johnson's budget, sent to Congress Wednesday, and Whelihan said there would be none. The President-elect and the man he will succeed Monday talked on the telephone for about 40 minutes Tuesday night. Johnson placed the call to Nixon. The substance of their conversation was not disclosed.
Nixon is expected to remain in Key Biscayne until late Friday, spend a day in New York, then head for Washington on Sunday.

Newspaper A Go-Between In Murder Case

EUCLED, Ohio (AP) — A mysterious message published in the Cleveland Press at the request of police held the hope today of a clue in the pistol slaying of Mrs. Marlene Steele.
The message was: "Dajef."
Police Chief Frank Payne said he had been told he would receive information concerning the slaying of the 37-year-old mother of two last week if the letters appeared in a newspaper.
The Press published the message under a headline saying: "Here is a message in Steele case."
The message was published Wednesday as police continued their search for the death weapon.
Mrs. Steele, wife of Municipal Judge Robert L. Steele was found dead in her bed by her husband who said he heard popping sounds in their upstairs bedrooms while he was upstairs checking on their sleeping children.

LBJ Points To Prosperity, Pains In Economic Paper

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson said today in his final Economic Report that he's leaving behind a solid foundation for continued prosperity, but he conceded that his successor will have to deal with major problems in the economy.
The President, in sending his report to Congress, said the United States has experienced an unprecedented period of prosperity in the last eight years, all under Democratic administrations. This has permitted, he said, major investments which should insure continued economic growth for the indefinite future.

But the president saw one flaw in his generally rosy economic analysis—the wage-price spiral which became especially serious in 1968.
He insisted that this was caused in no small part by the failure of Congress to enact the 10 per cent income surtax in January, 1967, when he first asked for it. The bill passed 18 months later.

Congressional critics have said this delay resulted largely from a refusal by Johnson and his Defense Department to present the true costs of the Vietnam war at the time they first became obvious.

In any event, Johnson declared in his report that the job of combining national prosperity with price stability "is the biggest remaining over-all challenge facing the nation."

Industrial countries have never solved this problem of inflation, said Johnson, and the United States could not solve it either in the short-term future. But he expressed confidence that eventually an answer would be found. "There is no simple nor single formula for success," he commented. "But this combination (high employment and stable prices) can and must be achieved—by the United States and within the next several years."

"Now that we have learned to sustain prosperity, we can surely not allow inflation to erode or erase that victory."
The solutions he advocated lean heavily on the so-called

"New Economics."
Cutting taxes and raising government spending in periods of economic slowdown, the opposite when booms threaten to get out of hand; higher interest rates in inflationary times, lower ones in slack periods.
But the President said there also must be other steps. One of these, he said, is steady improvement in the productivity of American industries and workers. Another is voluntary agreement by both business and labor to restrain themselves in raising prices and demanding wage boosts.

Johnson said he recommended a $3.5 billion budget surplus and extension of the surtax as "a tight and prudent program" appropriate to the present inflationary period. He estimated that this would hold the increase in the nation's output of goods and services to $60 billion in 1969 compared to the $71 billion recorded in 1968.

"The over-all gains will not and should not be as large as those in 1968, but they will still make for a highly prosperous year," he said.

Without this restraint, said

Johnson serious economic pitfalls were possible. A demand could arise for wage and price controls, he said, and imposing them would mean "a dead end for economic freedom and progress."

In addition to maintaining prosperity with price stability, Johnson said the Nixon administration would face three other major economic problems. He described them this way:

"We must more fully secure the foundations of the world monetary system and of our own balance of payments.

"We must fulfill our many unmet public needs such as good education, efficient transportation, clean air and pure water, quality as well as quantity is the key to a better life.
"We must share more equitably the fruits of prosperity among all our citizens. A nation as prosperous . . . cannot afford to leave any citizen in poverty."
